STANFORD, LINCOLN COUNTY, KENTUCKY, FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 16, 1912.

EVERY TUESDAY AND FRIDAY

DICK NEWLAND ARRESTS

ROWDY NEGRO AT DEPOT Conditions So Bad There Late Monday Night Private Citizen Is Forced to Protect Lady.

The campaign to clean up the town of drunks and blind tigers was well inaugurated this week, when on Monday night Richard M. Newland, one of the best known and respected citizens of Stanford, took the law into his own hands at the depot, where a negro man named Will Moore was "raising Cain" and brought him by the collar to town and turned him over to Chief of Police B. D. Carter. Police Judge Menefee the next morning sent Moore "over the road" for eighty days for being drunk and using profane language. He endeavored to make Moore tell where he had secured the whisky that he drank but Moore insisted that a man had given it to him in a restaurant.

Mr. Newland was at the depot at 11:27 Monday night to meet a friend, due to arrive on the east bound train, when he noticed a disturbance being caused by the negro Moore. Coe Moser, night agent, told him that he had driven the negro out of the station one and when Mr. Newland came up, the negro was cursing and using very indecent language. A white woman sat in the waiting room, together with many negro men and women. Mr. Moser said that he would have telephoned for an officer, but the depot phone was out of shape, and he asked Mr. Newland to help him with the negro until the train had passed, or else go down town and get Deputy Sheriff Jas. McCarty, whose soft drink stand is just a short distance down Depot street. Seeing that the negro was persisting in his unseemly talk and conduct, Mr. Newland, took matters into his own hand, and forced the negro to go with him to McCarty's place. That officer, however, was unwilling to arrest the negro without a warrant, whereupon Mr. Newland brought Moore on to the livery stable and telephoned to Chief of Police Carter, who got up out of bed, came up town and placed Moore in jail.

Mr. Newland said that there seemed to a dozen idle negroes congregated about the depot, several notorious street walkers being among them. He told Chief Carter that if he would obtain their names, he would swear out warrants against all of them for loitering, and creating a public nuisance at the depot. Mr. Newland said that the depot at the time was certainly no place for a white woman, yet the one who was there waiting for her train had to put up with it all, and listen to words from the drunken negro which no woman should hear.

As a result of this affair, it is probable that when the station officials are moved into the depot, which will probably be next week, the matter will be taken up with Supt. Snyder and other officials of regulating the assemblage at the depot of idlers and loafers, of either race, and seeing that only those who are going off as passengers, or are waiting for arrival on the train, shall be allowed to congregate about the station. It has been suggested that it were well to have several of the night and day men who are on duty, sworn in as deputy city marshals empowered to control and arrest, if need be, those who have made it a custom of loafing about the station, if the practice is not broken up. In nearly every city where there is a depot of the size and beauty that the L. & N. is, just completing here, there is usually some adequate police control afforded by the railroad, in co-operation with the city authorities, and those who have noticed conditions here, know that there is no place in the state where such is needed more.

A young man by the name of Marney, of Garrard county, was arrested, by Chief Carter, upon a warrant sworn out by Carroll Shanks, charging him with being drunk Monday. He was fined $8 by Judge Menefee, who endeavored to learn if the liquor had been bought in Stanford, but the young man swore that he had ordered it at Lancaster from a New Albany, Ind. house, and produced an express receipt to substantiate his story.

The Confederate organization of Alabama succeeded in keeping Gen. Robert E. Lee's name from being used by a whisky firm.

DOUBLE WEDDING

Performed at Preachersville—Popular Young Couples Wed.

Two very popular young East End couples, Mr. Oscar Holtzclaw, and Miss Maude McAlister, and Mr. Marshall Newland, and Miss Mary Bess Holtzclaw, drove to the home of Mrs. John F. Pettus at Preachersville, where Rev. J. E. Roberts, this pastor, performed a double ceremony uniting them in marriage. These two couples had been sweethearts for a long time, but their marriage came as a surprise to their many friends, who tendered heartiest congratulations and good wishes. One bride and one groom are the children of Mr. and Mrs. B. D. Holtzclaw, while Mr. Holtzclaw's bride is the daughter of R. J. McAlister near Crab Orchard. Mr. Newland is the son of Mr. Henry Newland, on R. F. D. No. 1. Both are progressive young farmers.

MAD DOGS

Bite a Number of Canines And Other Animals—Only One Muzzled

Several mad dog scares have prevailed in some parts of the county the past week, and many canines which are suspected of having been bitten by rabid animals, are being killed. The bull dog belonging to Sam D. Eads, about five miles from town on the Lancaster pike, first showed signs of going mad, and is said to have bitten a number of dogs in that section and also to have bitten some calves and hogs.

The dog was finally killed in Logansport, the negro settlement near the Lancaster pike. A number of the dogs which he is believed to have infected have also been killed. One or two of the dogs which were said to have been bitten, are said to have been seen in town, and had fights with town dogs, so that there is believed to be some danger that local dogs may go mad.

Mayor Florence a few weeks ago issued a proclamation that all dogs in town be muzzled upon penalty of being killed, so far but one dog has been seen muzzled in town, while there are dozens roaming the streets without them.

GROVE C. KENNEDY.

Crab Orchard, Ky., Feb. 10, '12.
Editor Interior Journal:—

By request of the family, and compliance with a promise, I contribute a few lines to the memory of the grand old man to whom I gave the name of "Baron" and to his broad fertile acres "Barony". I knew him well. A few years ago, I took a lot of fine short horns there and we raised on the shares, and on division day, we divided by alternate choosing, to the entire satisfaction of both. His domain was manorial, his residence palatial. My herd was under his care. His gallant boys under mine. He said he never saw the like. His boys stayed at home day and night while I was there, but as soon as I started to town on Saturdays the boys scattered immediately.

The old "Baron" gave us all good advice and when supper was over, the good old "Baron" would take his blind Bartemus on his back and carry me to the dining room where his queenly wife presided.

The time spent there constitutes the brightest oasis in my eventful life. He idolized his boys, he adored his wife, and provided well for his household. A celebrated turfman of Crab Orchard, says he never knew him to have any trouble with a gentleman. That he had known him intimately for well nigh a hundred years and he never had any trouble with him. The uncle with whom he had the difficulty was not an uncle by consanguinity but by affinity only. He thought that in settling up an estate that his wife had not been treated fairly.

The "Baron" lived like King Edward the First, beloved by all his family, feared by his enemies, and admired by all mankind. Peace to his ashes.

WEST FOR WOODROW WILSON

Says Former Supreme Court Judge Of Oregon In Interview.

(Cincinnati Enquirer)

"Governor Woodrow Wilson is the choice of most democrats and many republicans in my state for the Presidency," declared former Judge Will R. King, who as a member of the State Supreme Court of Oregon, wrote the opinion in the famous Keron case, involving the principle of the initiative and referendum which was recently argued before the Supreme Court of the United States, and is now awaiting decision by that tribunal.

"And you might, too," added the noted Western jurist, "that Governor Wilson would have no trouble carrying the republican state of Oregon in the event of his nomination."

"The New Jersey Executive appeals to the popular imagination," said Judge King, "and I regard his nomination by the Baltimore convention as a practical certainty. He is by far the strongest candidate the Democracy can present to the people in the coming Presidential campaign, and if nominated as I believe he will be, he will be elected."

"The Watterson-Harvey incident has helped to advance the New Jersey Executive in popular esteem. The public was not slow to grasp the fact that big business planned to destroy him, and in the West there is nothing but admiration for his courageous stand in refusing to be Ryanized."

"On Oregon we have the preferential primaries, and there is no doubt that Woodrow Wilson will be the choice of the democrats of the state for the Democratic Presidential nomination. He will have the support of a large element of progressive Republicans if nominated, and Oregon will give her electoral vote to him. My information is that the New Jersey Executive is equally as strong in other states in the West."

MISS SUE BETH JAMES

BEFORE THE FOOT LIGHTS

A dispatch from Chicago to the Louisville Herald last week said:

Kathleen McIntosh and Sue Beth James, wealthy Mississippi girls, are on their way back to their home towns after a sensational flight from an exclusive musical seminary in Meridian and an unavailing effort to storm the footlights heights of Chicago theatrically. Says Court of Appeals For Brutal Murder at Somerset.

Beatty and Constable W. F. Heath in the town of Burnside. Ellis was a deputy sheriff and Helton was a deputy constable and the killing took place in Beatty's office. The court says it was conclusively proven that either Ellis or Helton shot and killed Squire Beatty and that it is not material which one fired the shots that killed him, if the other aided or assisted the one that did the shooting. A Lincoln county jury gave Ellis the death sentence.

DRUMMER WHO VOTED HERE

IS HELD TO GRAND JURY

Temperance Leaders Prosecute Armour & Co.'s Representative For Voting in Local Option Election

G. E. Christy, the man who travels this territory for Armour & Company, of Lexington was held to the grand jury under $100 bond by Judge Bailey in the County Court Thursday on the charge of illegal voting in the local option election last Saturday. The warrant against him was sworn out by a number of temperance leaders, after Christy had voted for saloons in the Engle House precinct. J. W. Acey, who was on his bond for the examination, continued on the bond for the hearing before the grand jury next week.

Christy claimed that as Stanford was a central point in his territory that he intended to make this his home, and bring his wife here, after their marriage last October, his wife having been a Miss Pike, of Brodhead. However, he had been unable to secure rooms here and had not moved his wife here. The hotel register showed that he usually registered as from Lexington, and once or twice had registered from Brodhead.

The Commonwealth proved by Christy's own testimony that his intention to make Stanford his legal home had only been formed since his marriage last October, which would give him a residence here of less than six months in the county as required by law for a legal voter.

County Attorney, W. S. Burch, conducted the prosecution, assisted by Attorneys P. M. McRoberts and K. S. Alcorn, while Attorney C. G. Williams of Mt. Vernon, defended Christy.

Rev. C. T. Clauch's subject at the Baptist church Sunday, was "Where He Leads I Will Follow." Bro. Clauch is doing a fine work here, and has greatly endeared himself to his people since coming among us. He has one idle Sunday and any church without a pastor would do well to secure his services.

Mr. and Mrs. McDowell Fogle with their bright little daughter Katherine Lee, came down Friday to see Mr. Fogle's father and mother.

A "dry" majority of 948 in old Lincoln last Saturday was by no means a bad showing for the temperance people, in fact it is something of which they should be proud. Now let the saloon men and their associates hang their heads in shame, while religion and morals go higher, and the good people rejoice with exceeding great joy.

Horses sold well at C. M. Perkins' sale on Indian creek Saturday. A fine year old harness mare brought $187. Dr. C. B. Creech bought a two year old horse at $143. Cattle sold low. Mr. Perkins will likely move to Oregon, and make his future home.
